FACULTY DISAPPROVES.

Votes Against Caps and Gowns. Lack of Unanimity of Opinion the Reason.

At a meeting of the Faculty held Wednesday afternoon, a vote was passed expressing disapprobation of the wearing of Caps and Gowns by the graduating class. In its last analysis the reason given for the action is that there is a lack of unanimity of opinion regarding the matter among those who have an interest in the subject.

This lack of unanimity of opinion is evident not only in the Faculty and in the Senior Class but also in the other three classes and in the Alumni. There are factions in each group of men, and there is not enough unanimity of opinion to assure the Faculty that graduation with Caps and Gowns would be a serious affair and would be continued by the other classes.

Even those members of the Faculty who were strongest in favor of the adoption of Caps and Gowns for the graduating exercises realized that it would be perfectly ludicrous to have some men wear the dress and others not. Under present circumstances it would be hard to say whether every member of the graduating class would wear the uniform simply because a majority of his class had decided to adopt the custom.

The Faculty also thought that if the custom should be adopted that it should be gone into in the right way. The claim that Caps and Gowns would afford a cheap and simple dress would hardly hold as it is a part of the custom to have a distinctive dress for each separate degree.

In view of these circumstances the Faculty put aside for the moment all personal opinions on the matter and voted that it was the opinion of the body that at the present time it was not advisable to adopt the custom.

MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED.

The fifth article in the Intercollegiate Civic League series is by Hon. James Brown Scott, Solicitor of the Department of State. Professor Scott is one of the great authorities in the country on international law. His article is entitled "Municipal Problems in the Light of International Law," and is in part as follows:

It would seem at first sight strange advice to one studying municipal laws and problems of municipal law that he should make himself familiar with the principles of International Law. But it would only need a little reflection to show him that the advice, though strange, is sound; for International Law is and always has been an integral and fundamental part of our system of jurisprudence.

It is familiar doctrine that a treaty is a contract between nation and nation. In this country it is more; it is a law of the United States, and as such binds the citizens of states and territories to its terms. The extent to which a treaty becomes a law of the land and repeals or supersedes a local ordinance in-

New Pieces Successfully Introduced in Musical Clubs Concert.

The Musical Clubs gave a concert Wednesday evening at the Universalist Church, Chelsea, before an appreciative audience of about two hundred. The entertainment was given under the auspices of the Y. Each of the clubs introduced for the first time one of the new pieces on which they have been practicing since the beginning of the term, and all went off well. The Banjo Club's "Indian War Dance" promises to be especially successful. The program was as follows:

DEFEATS TUFTS 5 TO 4.

Technology defeated Tufts at the Gym in a close fencing meet Wednesday evening, five bouts to four. The meet was held to decide one held at the Tufts gymnasium on Feb. 14, which was called off because of continual disagreement among the judges. The meet Wednesday evening was a tie down to the last bout, which Bounetheau by clever work won for his team. Turner, a new man on the Tech team, made the best showing as he won all of his bouts.

The teams were composed of the following men: Tech — Capt. H. Du Pre Bounetheau, '08; Loring, '09, Turner, '08. Tufts — Alvarengo, '07; Ganteaume, '07; Todd, '07.

The Summary:

First bout — Turner v. Todd, won by Turner, Tech.

Second bout — Alvarengo v. Bounetheau, won by Alvarengo, Tufts.

Third bout — Ganteaume v. Loring, won by Ganteaume, Tufts.

Fourth bout — Bounetheau v. Todd, won by Bounetheau, Tech.

Fifth bout—Alvarengo v. Loring, won by Alvarengo, Tufts.

Sixth bout — Turner v. Ganteaume, won by Turner, Tech.

Seventh bout — Todd v. Loring, won by Todd, Tufts.

Eighth bout — Turner v. Alvarengo, won by Turner, Tech.

Ninth bout — Bounetheau, v. Ganteaume, won by Bounetheau, Tech.

Score—Tech 5, Tufts 4.

NOT A CLASS DINNER.

Regular Kommers Saturday Evening to be in Charge of 1908.

There has been considerable misunderstanding concerning the Kommers Saturday night. It was arranged that the Class of 1908 should hold a meeting at the Union Saturday night, the Institute Committee understanding that the meeting was to be a Kommers, but under the charge of the Class of 1908. The class committee on the contrary had in mind the giving of their class dinner in conjunction with that of 1898, and, as a class dinner, a good many tickets were disposed of at 50 cents.

It being one of the rules governing the Union that Saturday night meetings are devoted exclusively to the student body, as soon as this misunderstanding became known, efforts were made to rectify it, with the result that the meeting is open to any student who desires to attend and all are cordially invited. The price of the tickets is 50 cents, this being necessary as so many of the tickets have been sold. All parties interested regret exceedingly the misunderstanding and hope that there will be a large attendance.

The Class of '98 will be represented by twenty-five members, while a very small number of '08 men have bought tickets. The tickets are limited in number and, as the Kommers are open to the whole student body, the Juniors are urged by their committee to get their tickets today.

Prof. C. E. A. Winslow, secretary of '98, and H. T. Gerrish, president, will act as toastmasters. The speakers will be A. A. Packard, H. S. Coburn, W. H. Godfrey, W. E. Putman, F. B. Perry, and Professor Winslow of the Class of 1898, and F. H. McGuigan, G. T. Glover, Kurt Vonnegut, and W. A. Adams, of the Class of '08.

FRANK K. SANDERS SPEAKS.

Frank K. Sanders, D.D., former dean of the Yale Divinity School, addressed the Tech Y. M. C. A. yesterday on the Origin of the Intercollegiate Y. M. C. A. Movement. This organization, begun in the early eighties, now has an efficient and permanent representation in nearly every college. Success has been due chiefly to the splendid leadership of those who planned the organization, and to the general character of the work, embracing as it does a chain of associations all over the world bound together in a common Christian work. Dr. Sanders started the movement in India twenty years ago; and the college associations of that country are thoroughly organized similarly to those of the American College Y. M. C. A.

Friday, March 1, 1907.

Ballots were sent out Tuesday to members of the Class of 1909 for the election of their Technique Electoral Committee.

1909 Electoral Committee.

The time has come for the class to stop and think about its future reputation. Upon the selection of the Electoral Committee depends indirectly the stand which 1909 will take in the history of the Institute. The twenty-five men on this committee choose the Technique Board whose work decides the success or failure of the annual of that class. Technique 1908 is in process of preparation and THE TECH feels sure that this publication will be quite up to the standard. Consequently 1909 must look to her laurels and prepare for next year.

The main point to be borne in mind is the necessity of choosing twenty-five representative men. That number may seem large and there is no doubt that it leaves opportunity for the display of personal feeling. What is needed, however, is that every man consider the election as an individual responsibility. Let each one vote for the most representative and deserving men in the class, and then leave the rest to them. Technique is not only important to the class and to each one of its members but to the whole Institute as well. Every effort should be made to eliminate personal feelings or ambitions, and to prevent any one set of men from influencing the election. Therefore 1909 do your best.

As our readers will note from an article in today's issue an attempt is being made to form "a debating and current events club" with the object of giving its members practice in public speaking and of keeping them in touch with the events of the day.

Proposed Debating Club.

It seems hardly necessary to point out that any such organization would be encroaching upon ground which is already covered by the Civic Club. It is inconceivable that two organizations whose avowed objects present such similarity of aim, could exist simultaneously in a flourishing condition. Here especially is this true at the Institute, where lack of time and diversity of interest among the students narrow very much the the field for such operations. The Civic Club gives an opportunity to everyone to discuss national and municipal problems, and additional interest is lent to the meetings of the club by the reading of the series of letters written by prominent men, one of which appears in this issue.

A club such as is being proposed is therefore of doubtful utility. Rather let all those who are interested in debate, lend their support to an existing organization by becoming members of the Civic Club.

TO PLAY MAINE.

In the next to last game of the season Tech will meet the University of Maine basketball five tomorrow evening at the Gym. The Maine men are to be entertained at the Kommers at the Union before the game. The Tech five is in much better shape than it has been at any time this season and will give Maine a hard battle. The last game is to be played next Tuesday evening with the championship Dartmouth team.

MUNICIPAL PROBLEMS DISCUSSED.

consistent with its terms is now occupying the attention of the whole country. Reference is made to the treaty of commerce and navigation of 1894 between the United States and Japan. The contention lies within a small compass, but its importance is great.

The city of San Francisco, pursuant to a statute of California, passed a local ordinance by the terms of which Japanese students were forbidden to attend the public schools with the other children of San Francisco. At the same time separate schools were designated for Japanese children. Japan insists that Article I of the treaty of 1894 gives, at least by implication, to the Japanese the same right of education as is enjoyed by other residents of the state and bases the contention especially on the fact that the right of residence necessarily involves the right to education. Japan also invokes the favored nation clause. The exact language relied upon is as follows:

"In whatever relates to rights of residence and travel . . . . . the citizens or subjects of each Contracting Party shall enjoy in the territories of the other the same privileges, liberties, and rights, and shall be subject to no higher imposts or charges in these respects than native citizens or subjects of the most favored nation." (Article 1.)

California maintains on the other hand that it has the right to judge what is best suited to the needs and comforts of citizens of the state and that the separation of the Japanese is a valid exercise of the police power of the state recognized by the treaty itself. It is not the purpose of this paper to take sides; the question is merely stated to show how important a role International Law may play in the life and education of a community.

Suppose a colony of Liberians should settle in the United States and suppose it should be determined that residence implied the right to schools. Could the Liberian complain if he were treated as his fellow African in blood, but American by birth and education?

From these instances, it is seen how thoroughly International Law and the rights and privileges arising and claimed under that law enter into the life of the American people. As citizens we must understand these questions for as voters we pass upon them. If the vote is to be intelligent the voter must be trained, and if the voter is trained in matters of International Law his vote will go for a foreign and domestic policy based upon enlightened and well-recognized principles of International Law and international policy. It is a trite saying that we cannot understand a statute unless we understand the common law which the statute either has changed or was intended to modify. It is equally true, if not so trite, that we cannot understand the municipa law of the United States and municipal problems which confront us unless we understand International Law, which is a fundamental and constituent part of the law of the land.
